

You see the door in the wall – and a voice in your head says: “Go through the door. There’s a different world on the other side.

Go on. Open it and see.”

Your family have already moved on, looking at another part of the garden. You’re on your own...

An ordinary family visit has suddenly become extraordinary. And now it’s up to you where the story goes. Will your character go through the door – and what will they find? What adventure will be waiting for them?

Let your imagination fly and create another world! You can draw your story out too – or write it by hand or type it up. Work with whatever is best for you.

I would love to hear all about your story. You can email me at gill@inkpots.org

Happy writing!
